FATAL R. R. ACCIDENT

Approaching Marriage of Miss Hays and Mr. Owens a Surprise. Other Newsy Paragraphs

Clinton, Dec. 3.-Thanksgiving Day was observed as usual in Clinton. In spite of the disagreeable weather. there was much feasting and pleasure. Services were held in the various churches, and collections taken up for the orphanages. There were a number of family gatherings, a few formal dinwent home for the day; others got boxes from home. Mrs. McKellar provided at the dormitory a sumptuous dinner, to which she invited a number of young ladies. At the Orphanage the usual good dinner was enjoyed. For many years the same man has made it a point to provide the Thanksgiving dinner at the Orphanage. In the afternoon there were various parties and Tom Scott, as usual, collected a liberal supply of provisions for the inmates of the county home.

Mr. Haskell Copeland, of Statesville, a student at Wofford, spent Thanks giving with Mrs. W. A. Shands: Miss Emmie McCrary, a student at the College for Women in Columbia, was at home from Wednesday to Monday; Miss Marion Fleming, of Augusta, a Converse student, visited Miss Mary Bean; Miss Mary Cooper, of Mayesville, visited Misses Katherine and Rhett Milam; Miss Moore, of Georgia, visited her sister, Mrs. J. Groves Colbert. Several former pupils of the Orphanage returned for Thanksgiving at to the old home. Mr. Wallace, of the paid as income tax. Columbia Theological Seminary, and Mr. Clinkscales, of the South Carolina College Law School, visited friends; Prof. and Mrs. A. V. Martin visited friends in Newberry.

A sad incident following Thanksgiving was the killing of Mr. C. A. Duncan, an employe of the Lydia Cotton Mills. It is said that he had been drinking during the day, and it is suptrack. He was struck and instantly illed by the northbound vestibule at bout 6 o'clock Thanksgiving Day. No posed that he sat down on the railroad

SCHOOL FIGURES SHOW GROWTH

Quarter Century Progress Tabulated by Mr. Martin, and Enrollment and Attendance Given for Comparison.

Mr. O. B. Martin, the State superinendent of education, has prepared ome interesting figures on school atendance and expenditures for the past quarter century. The figures show the rganization under Hugh S. Thompson, afterwards governor, and the difficul ies with which he had to contend over opposition in putting the school system n a business basis. The report is as

Twenty-five years ago State Superntendent Hugh S. Thompson was closng his term of office, after having done some very successful foundation and building work for a public school system in South Carolina. In order to acomplish results it was necessary for him to encounter a great deal of opposition. The statistics in his reports of is last term of office show marked development contrasted with conditions when he first assumed the position. This year's statistics are very interesting when contrasted with those of a quarter of a century ago. The follow-

There are some points in the statistics of this year in contrast with last year which are favorable, and some which are not. The average attendance last year was 218,862. The total this year is 222,189. This is especially encouraging, in view of the fact that the enrollment did not increase. There was a decrease in the enrollment. The enrollment last year was 318,075. The enrollment this year was 314,399. In a number of counties the session was shortened, presumedly because of a reduction in funds. Some counties miss the funds which they have received erected three new State institutions, from the dispensary more than other counties.

The "Johnny Jones" Carnival is to the 'Johnny Jones' Carmival is to fronting on North Harper street; and a good selection of different kinds of carnivals go, we don't take much stock in them. We don't know that they help the town, or elevate the aesthetic sentiment of the people. Neither does a minstrel show, but both afford a lot of entertainment to a great many people and take them out of the humdrum of their daily life. As we understand help the town, or elevate the aesthetic it, the "Johnny Jones" carnival is composed of clean shows-none of them in the least immoral, and some of them instructive. UNTIMELY DEATH OF MR. W.P. CAINE

Mr. Henry Counts has returned to Clemson College after a short visit at The Unfortunate Effects of Antitoxine.

A SHOCKING CALAMITY

The Deceased Was Cashier of the Bank of Laurens and a Young Man Most

One of the most shocking calamities that has ever happened in this community occurred in the sudden death of Mr. W. P. Caine on Monday at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Caine's little daughter was very ill with diptheria and on Sun day 3,000 units of antitoxine was administered to the child. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Caine took a preventive dose of 1,000 units each of antitoxine as a precaution against contracting the disease. The dose that Mr. Caine took caused a convulsion immediately and he died in a very short time. The incident is most remarkable as the practice of inoculating with antitoxine as a preventive for diptheria is very common and serious results are so rare that physicians regard this as an idiosyn-

As stated, no death in recent years has caused such general sorrow as the deceased was one of the most highly regarded young men in Laurens and enjoyed the esteem and acquaintance of a arge circle of friends throughout the State. Before attaining his majority he entered the Bank of Laurens, an institution founded by his lamented father and assumed active and responsible duties and within a short time became assistant cashier. About two years ago, upon the resignation of Mr. John J. Pluss as cashier, Mr. Caine was promoted to the position which he filled with efficiency and satisfaction to all concerned. About the same time he was elected cashier of the bank he was offered the position of assistant bank examiner of the State, which he declined. He was also president of the Caine & Pitts Furr ure Co., one of the successful business concerns of the city. Socially Mr. Caine enjoyed wide pop ularity and as a fraternity man he was Junior Warden of Palmetto lodge, No. 19, A. F. M., a Royal Arch Mason.
